Speculation in the railway share market has been aguid to-day, and a very moderate business only has accordingly transacted. The continued absence of ide support has a discouraging effect upon the proside support has a discouraging effect upon the proconal speculators who are at present operating for a
, and there is a corresponding indisposition to "load further until the harvest prospects become more ided or a demand from the public springs up. The per is not likely to be experienced to any mateextant until after the pecuniary results of modant crops have been resped in whole in part, and meanwhile the professional relators will have to rely upon each other for sup-Il have to rely upon each other for supor out each others' throats at discretion on the Kilcat and dog-eat-dog principle. It is undeniable ing at prices so low as to be, provided the roads selling at prices so low as to be, provided the roads represent were well managed, below their real e, and even under existing circumstances they probably cheap. The public, however, has confidence in railway shares in consequence not a few of the roads being manin wall street for the benefit of the apeculadirectors, and entirely regardless of the interests of kholders. These men manipulate their respective These men manipulate their respective up and down irrespective of real values, and to entrap the unwary and fill their own pockets. y to estrap the unwary and nil their own poccets, y go designedly to work with the necessary capital, for the outside public to attempt to compete such skilled combinations is very much playing against sharpers with leaded dice, the one class of men is as unscrupu-as the other. To caution the public snares and pitfalls of Wall street would seem to be unnecessary in view of its past experience if we did not know that in many instances the latter is like seed sown on stony ground and soon becomes effaced. As it is we advise all those who are contemplating "a lyer" in stocks to change their mind on the subject, but se who can pay for their securities and lock them an indefinite period in their strong boxes have no words of discouragement. The will come when all the leading railways in the country will be far more valuable properties than they are now, and their stocks will undergo a propor-tionate improvement in value. By that time they will be bought up for investment, and stockholders will feel sufficient interest in the management of those great highways of traffic to vote at the annual elections for lirectors, while the stocks being out of Wall street, tors will no longer seek their positions for stock ing purposes. The sooner this time comes the beter for stockholders and the commercial and travelling

The gold market was a shade firmer than at the end of last week, the range of the day having been from 137% to 137%, with the closing transactions at the latter price. The advance was in part due to the increasing city of coin for delivery, which caused loans to be made "flat" and at 1-64 a 1-32 per cent per diem in favor of lender. The gross clearings aggregated only $28,350,000, and the gold balances $929,140.

An English journal gives the subjoined table of the dividends upon the shares of the six principal railways of France for the last five years, and incidentally re-

Marks:—

A very large proportion of the capital of the French railways is raised by obligations or small debentures, issued at about £12 each, receiving an annual interest of 12s. each, and redeemable by annual drawings at £20 each. The extent to which this debenture system has been carried will be seen in the fact that, while the share capital of the Northern of France is £3,400,000, the aggregate amount of capital expended to the close of 1366 was £23,478,039, the balance of £15,078,059 being raised by obligations. At the same time the dividends paid upon the share capital of the companies will be seen to be high:—

NEW JERSEY INTELLIGENCE.

body of a boy in a nude state was found on the bank of the Hackensack river, near the railroad bridge, where it was washed up apparently by the tide. The man who made the discovery immediately proceeded to give informa-tion to the Coroner, but when he returned the body was gone. The mark of a boat, which had been run up in the mud, was visible, as well as the footprints of two men, who had evidently been there in their bare feet. A short time previous to this a row boat, containing five mon, was seen passing the Plank Road bridge, and it is supposed the body was stealthily removed by this party, but for what purpose is a mystery.

FALLING OF A BRIDGE-NARROW ESCAPE,-About ten o'clock yesterday morning the foot path of the bridge tated several persons who were standing upon it into the water below. Fortunately they received no serious damage, although their escape from severe, if not fatal injuries, is very remarkable. When it is remembered that the fall occurred at an hour when the streets are filled, and at one of the most public points, it seems very providential that no lives were lost. It is said that the bridge has been in a dangerous condition for several months past, but that through the negligence of the proper officials the matter has not received the attention the last rites prescribed by the ritual of the Catholic Church for its children were performed yesterday morning at the church of St. Francis Xavier, West Sixteenth street, over the remains of the Hon. James W. White, for many years an eminent jurist and one of the Judges of the Superior Court of this city. Mr. White was i descendant of one of the oldest families of Limerick, Ireland, and a nephew of the celebrated Gerald Griffin. He emigrated to this country in 1823, when but sixteen years of age, and commenced the study of the law with General Waterman, at Binghamton, Broome county, New York. Shortly after his admission to the bar he came to this city, in 1834, and founded the Freeman's Journal, which he edited for a long time. He served came to this city, in 1834, and founded the Preeman's Journal, which be edited for a long time. He served one term as Judge of the Superior Court, with much credit to himself, and in the practice of his profession as a lawyer acquired an enviable reputation for ability and zeal. His untiring labors tended to undermine his health, and his latest efforts in the Court of Claims, at Washington, it is believed, were the immediate causes of his fatal illness. He died on Thursday last, at Sufferns, Rockiand county, whither he had gone to recuperate his health. The funeral services yeaterday morning consisted of a solemn high mass of requience, an oration and flual absolution. The mass was performed by the Reverend Father Drizcoll, S. J., as colebrant, Reverend Father Beauderin, S. J., as deacon, Reverend Mr. French as sub-deacon, and Mr. Alvaro Betencourt as master of ceremonies. At the conclusion of the mass the Reverend B. O'Reilly, Chancellor and Secretary of the Diocese of Hartford, delivered a beautiful and touching sermon appropriate to the occasion and highly eulogistic of the dioceased. The libert was then chanted and final absolution pronounced by the officialing clergyman. During the services the remains rested on a catafaque placed in the central asise, on each side of which were several lighted tapers, and on the coffin was borne to the hearse, attended by the following pall bearers:—Colonel James A. Hamilton, Honorable James Brooks, Judge J. R. Brady, Ez-Judge Bosworth, John I. Patterson, Robert Miller and Thomas E. Walker. The funeral cordige then proceeded to St. Patrick's cathedral, in Mott street, were the remains were deposited in the family vault of deceased.

A PRIZE FIGHT IN NEW JERSEY.

On Saturday morning, June 15, two aspirants for puginatic fame repaired to the vicinity of Bordentown, New Jersey, to decide the mooted question of which was the better man for a match of one hundred and fifty New Jersey, to decide the mooted question of which was the better man for a match of one hundred and fifty dollars a side. The names of the pugilists were Seth Hawley and Dan Parker. They cach had a host of folowers to see fair play. Hawley had for his seconds Messra. Rogers and Woods, while Parker was taken care of by J. Shay and E. McCoy. Hawley had had many hard fights with his co-laborers on the canal, and has always come off winner, although in many instances the worse for wear; but this was his first appearance in the magic circle." Parker came from Mobile, where, it is said, he has fought several battles in the ring. At daylight the ring was pitched, and soon the men made their appearance, which was bailed with a shout that "made the welkin ring." The crowd was then cantioned to keep quiet, for fear of awakening the constabulary force of the town. Quietness was preserved for the remainder of the time the "boys" were in that neighborhood, and everything passed off on the square. The pugilists soon got to work, and after fighting desperatoly forty-eight rounds, which occupied one hour and forty minutes, during which time both men were terribly disfigured, both of Parker's eyes being entirely closed, he was compelled to give in, and Hawley was declared the victor. The crowd then despersed in an orderly manner, and no arrests were made—the authorities who have the maintenance of the peace of that Quaker town in their charge not being aware of the occurrence until all the parties had skedadded.
